A little girl was waiting for her Dad-dy one day.
"He was called so sud-den-ly and could not say good bye.

It was time to meet him when she heard her Mom-my say.
I know that he's in Heav-en; we'll meet him by and by."

"Come to Mom-my, dar-ling, please do not cry."
The lit-tle girl trem-bled, her tears she could not hide.

Dad-dy's gone to Heav-en, 'way up in the sky."
She looked up toward heav-en and then she re-plied,"How far is Heaven? When can I go to see my Daddy? He's there, I know.

How far is Heaven? Let's go to night; I want my daddy to hold me tight.
